

How can racehorse training be approved without an impact study?

Description

Carol Altmann – The Terrier

(Tidbit)

A reader sent me this glorious shot of Levy's Beach, Warrnambool. This is what passive recreation looks like in a coastal reserve.

One question just keeps rising about the council and State decision to allow up to 160 racehorses a day, five days a week, to train at Levy's:

Where is the environmental impact statement?

(And where is the baseline study so we can measure the impact on the dunes and foreshore over the next two years?)

www.the-terrier.com.au
#noracehorsesonbeaches

Protect the Belfast Coastal Reserve

Category

1. Opinion

Tags

1. beaches
2. commercial racehorse training
3. environmental impact statement
4. Levy's Beach
5. training
6. Warrnambool

Date Created

2019/01/16

Author

carol